ART STUDENTS VISIT THE METROPOLITAN MUSEUM OF ART

On Friday, May 18th, a group of art students accompanied by Miss Olshansker visited the Metropolitan Museum in New York. E. Runyon, K. Mahan, E. Wittendorfer, K. Levering, J. Osgood and H. Hamilton. They left C. C. I. at eight o'clock in the morning in Mrs. Merkel's car and arrived at the Museum at ten o'clock. After a brief inspection of the American Wing which gave them an idea of colonial furniture, they were met by Mr. George Elmer Browne. Mr. Browne is a member of the National Academy. With Mr. Browne they made a brief study of a few of the outstanding paintings in the Museum. Mr. Browne told the group interesting stories about such pictures as "Joan of Arc" by Le Page, "Henry G. Marquand" by Sargent Wolf and "Fox Hunt" by Peter Paul Rubens, "Madame Charpetier and Her Children" by Renoir and many others. The girls left the Museum feeling wiser from their visit and drove to a Russian Restaurant for lunch. This also was a new treat for most of them. Here they were able to see murals painted by a Russian artist.

After a delightful day the girls arrived back at school tired but pleased with their educational visit.

A RENDEZVOUS

I have a rendezvous with youth.
My soul is ever young;
I hear no evil with my ears,
Or voice it with my tongue.

I see no evil with my eyes;
No evil thoughts assail.
I have a rendezvous with youth,
And love and joy prevail.

And so with all the changing years
My own shall come to me.
I have a rendezvous with youth;
"The best is yet to be."

NEWS FLASH

We regret that it has been impossible for us to obtain the inside story from Florence Littlewood on "How It Feels to Swim In Evening Clothes."

DO'S AND DON'T'S FOR SENIORS

1. Don't go to last chapel without four or five of your largest handkerchiefs. (This may apply to undergraduates also).

2. Do go out of your way to be nice to people. You may never see some of them again.

3. Don't forget all of those letters you've promised to write this summer.

4. Do begin to study before exam week.

5. Don't let the last minute rush make you irritable.

6. Do co-operate in all of those last minute meetings.

7. Don't put the blame on the teacher—you were in class all year—why didn't you study?

8. Don't interrupt the commencement speaker with sobs.

AGNES JONES TO PILOT COLLEGE CLASS OF '35

Congratulations, Ag! We know that you will steer the class of '35 to a safe landing next June. There may be storms at sea, but you will weather them. May we say again, congratulations, and best wishes for a happy and successful year.

DR. HOWARD McCLENAHAN TO SPEAK AT 60th COMMENCEMENT

The speaker, for this, our sixtieth anniversary commencement service, will be Dr. Howard McClenahan, an alumnus of the class of 1890. Dr. McClenahan graduated from C. C. I. before it became a preparatory school for girls. He attended Princeton University where he later was professor in physics and dean of the college. Dr. McClenahan also attended the University of Pennsylvania. In 1919 he was president of the association of Colleges and Public Schools in the Middle States. He is the author of "Laboratory Directions In Experimental Physics". Dr. McClenahan was secretary for several years of the Franklin Institute in Pennsylvania. Since 1925 he has been director of that Institute.

We are very proud to have such a noted personage and alumnus of C. C. I. as our commencement speaker, and are looking forward to his address.

NUTTY

Walking across the campus late on a night about a week ago a student accosted me and before I had a chance to do anything he started to tell me the following story.

It seems there was a man who had been shipwrecked. He had been on a raft for three days with nothing to eat and all he had to drink was salt water. He soon went out of his head. On the evening of the third day a ship sighted him and picked him up. Now the cook on this ship was a Swede who had a particular fondness for sweets. This cook took the man into the kitchen to feed him. After several hours, when the rescued man failed to appear, the captain went down to the kitchen to see what had happened to him. He found the cook with a broad smile on his face and several bones on the floor. "Where's the man?" he said. "Ate him," answered the cook. When asked why he had done this, the cook said he had heard the doctor say the man was salt water daffy.

MYRA HUBERTH

Unites and other students of C. C. I., do you realize what a great honor and pleasure was almost denied you when some unknown disease almost made an end of Myra Huberth at the age of two? Of course, but by the simple process of removing her tonsils she was completely cured, but it was pretty serious while it lasted. Now she is hale and hearty and is very efficient in her office as Unite Class President.

Born in April, 1917, she lived a quiet and uneventful childhood with only two outstanding features. One, the love of bicycle riding and the other the hatred of dolls.

She loves swimming and is an all round sport. She has been captain of her class basketball team for two years and the way her shots fall in the basket is amazing.

When "Cocktails for Two" is heard, Myra becomes thoughtful and has a far away look in her eyes. Green is her favorite color and we all wish her luck with the Irish.

SHE ADMITS IT

Observing a young woman standing alone, the young man stepped up to her and said: "Pardon me. You look like Helen Black."

"Yes," she replied, "I know I do but I'd look far worse in white."

First Mosquito: "Why are you making such a fuss?"

Second Mosquito: "Whoopee! I passed the screen test."

"Is your wife a philanthropist?"

"Must be, the way she distributes my money among her friends at her bridge club."

Teacher: Give me a sentence using "antitoxin."

Small Boy: My auntie talks in her sleep.

The student ran away before I could hit him.

BRIEF BIOGRAPHY

Edith Rebecca Bailey emphasis on the Rebecca, or just "Edie" to her friends, is a native of Toms River, New Jersey. In fact I believe her ancestors were pillars of the town er' something.

Edie has a pet weakness that very few people are aware of—horses—who'd have think it? She also likes moonlight sails on the river—her favorite color is blue but it does not characterize her disposition. On the contrary, Edie's ever-smiling countenance and happy disposition is a great inspiration to Upper South.

Needless to say Edith enjoys a good joke now and then. We will always remember Bailey by her "Who? Where? I must go and find out!"

Edith, as President of the French Club has guided it through a very successful year, for which she deserves great praise.

"Are you by any chance taking French next year Edith?"

NO RECIPE

"Hey, cook, I'd like to take home the recipe of that hash you are cooking that smells so good."

"There is no recipe for hash. It just collects."

Senior (to bartender)—Ho ho and a bottle of rum.

Frosh (trying to be sophisticated)—Never mind the ho ho for me.

"Culture" is running rampant with Cookie and school teachers.

Did you ever see an old maid wear bobby socks—green ones at that.

Teacher was going to give an object lesson. "Tommy," she began, "why does your father put up storm windows every Fall?"

"Well," said Tommy, "Mother keeps at him until he finally gives in."

In a batch of brothers, one of them is always the hero of the rest.

A simple little manicure outfit aids in the preservation of the hands and the beautifying of the nails. The time required for its use amounts to nothing and the results are a dignified, intelligent, "toney" appearance.
